The Death Toll Comparison Breakdown

August 5, 2013 By Tim Urban

One of the things about humans is that they die sometimes, and one of the things humans pay a lot of attention to is other people dying. We do a pretty good job of distracting ourselves from the whole "I'm gonna die one day" thing, but the fixation is there, underneath the surface, and one way it shows through is how riveted we are by other people's deaths.

The news is an obvious example—just open up CNN.com and typically, at least half of the headlines are about people dying. Entertainment is another—nothing locks eyes on a screen like the death of a character.

History is a less obvious example, but it's the parts of history that involve a lot of people dying that usually compel us the most. That's why there are so many war movies and so few movies about critical legislation being passed.

But for a crowd so interested in death, humans know surprisingly little about the actual numbers of people that died in key moments throughout history. Most of us know that 3,000 people died on 9/11, but how many Americans know how many Katrina victims there were, or how many people died in the American Revolution. Did the Christian Crusades kill 100 times as many people as the Vietnam War? Or were they identical in their death tolls? Given how much we talk about historical human tragedies, it seems like something we should have a better handle on. So let's take a look.

Some quick notes:

- The area of each circle in the graphic is exactly proportional to the number it's representing and to the other circles in the graphic. Note the scale, and how it changes as the numbers grow. I chose circles and area because a one-dimensional scale like a bar graph doesn't work when numbers are growing 1,000-fold over each other—you need two dimensions to be able to handle such a wide range. But keep in mind that with the way area works, a circle with double the diameter of another circle represents four times the deaths, not two.

- I focused on human tragedies of various kinds, but sprinkled normal death statistics (the gray circles) throughout as comparison points to help put things in perspective.

- I tried to maintain integrity in my research. There are many "sources" citing various death tolls online—so I made sure there was a reasonable consensus for all the numbers below. When there were too many differing opinions (like Howard Zinn saying European Colonialism killed 100 million people, with other sources saying it was 2 million), I left it out. Sometimes, there is genuine uncertainty to the exact death toll in an event, but a consensus about the lower and upper bound that the death toll might be. In those cases, I made the upper bound a big, faded circle, and the lower bound a smaller, brighter circle inside. For example, the total number of lucky people who had their hearts cut out and sacrificed by the Aztecs is unknown. But historians are pretty sure that the number is somewhere between 300,000 and 1,500,000. So I represented that like this, with two circles:

Join 610,982 other humans and have new posts emailed to you

Email Address

SEND ME NEW POSTS

Follow these special men

415,688 167,569 75,473

Help us exist with Patreon

THE WBW STORE

RANDOM POST BUTTON

Popular Posts

The AI Revolution
919 194k

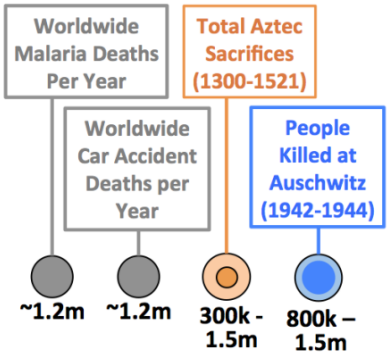
Why Procrastinators Procrastinate
391 325k

The Fermi Paradox
972 343k

The Elon Musk Series
406 55k

How to Pick a Life Partner
185 109k

Why Gen Y Yuppies Are Unhappy

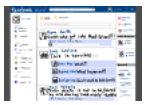


Alright, on with it. The Death Toll Comparison Breakdown:

KEY

STATISTICS	WAR CONQUEST GENOCIDE DEMOCIDE	TERRORISM	NATURAL DISASTERS	OTHER

1,060 804k



7 Ways to be Insufferable on Facebook
725 400k

Putting Time In Perspective
479 264k

How to Name a Baby
258 127k

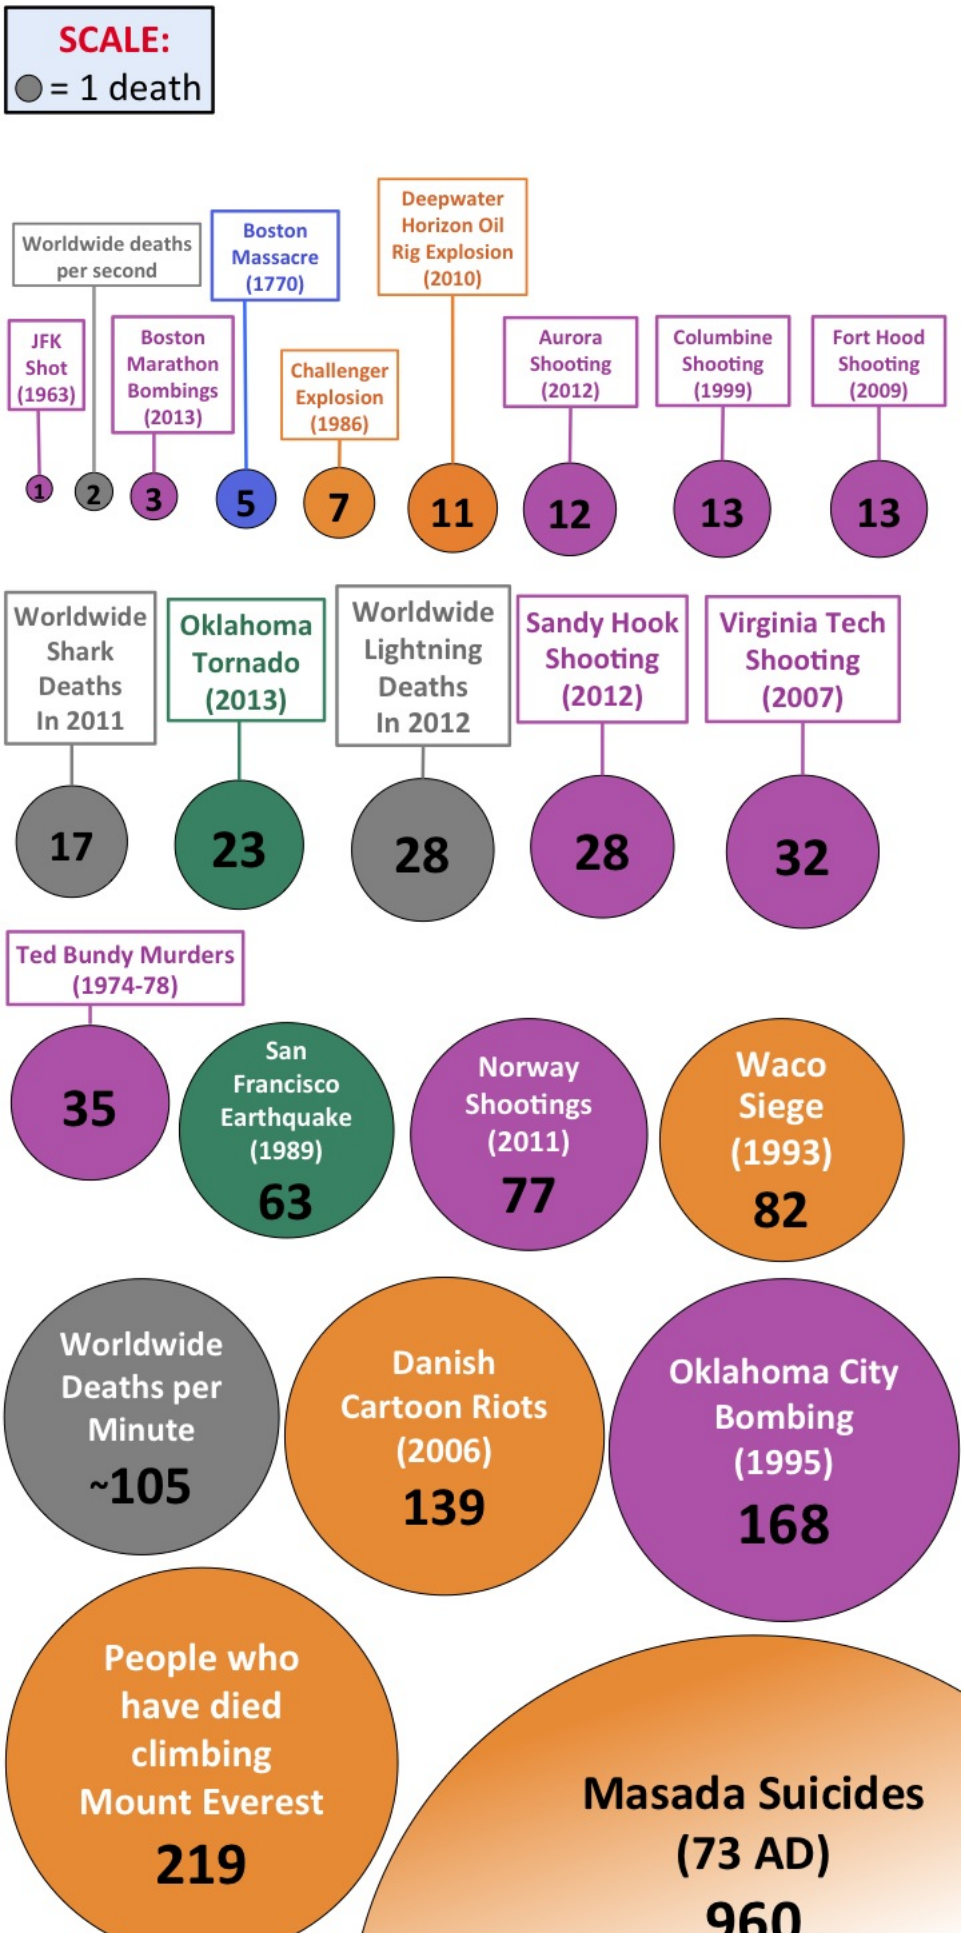
Why You Should Stop Caring What Other People Think
211 88k

Religion for the Nonreligious
575 26k

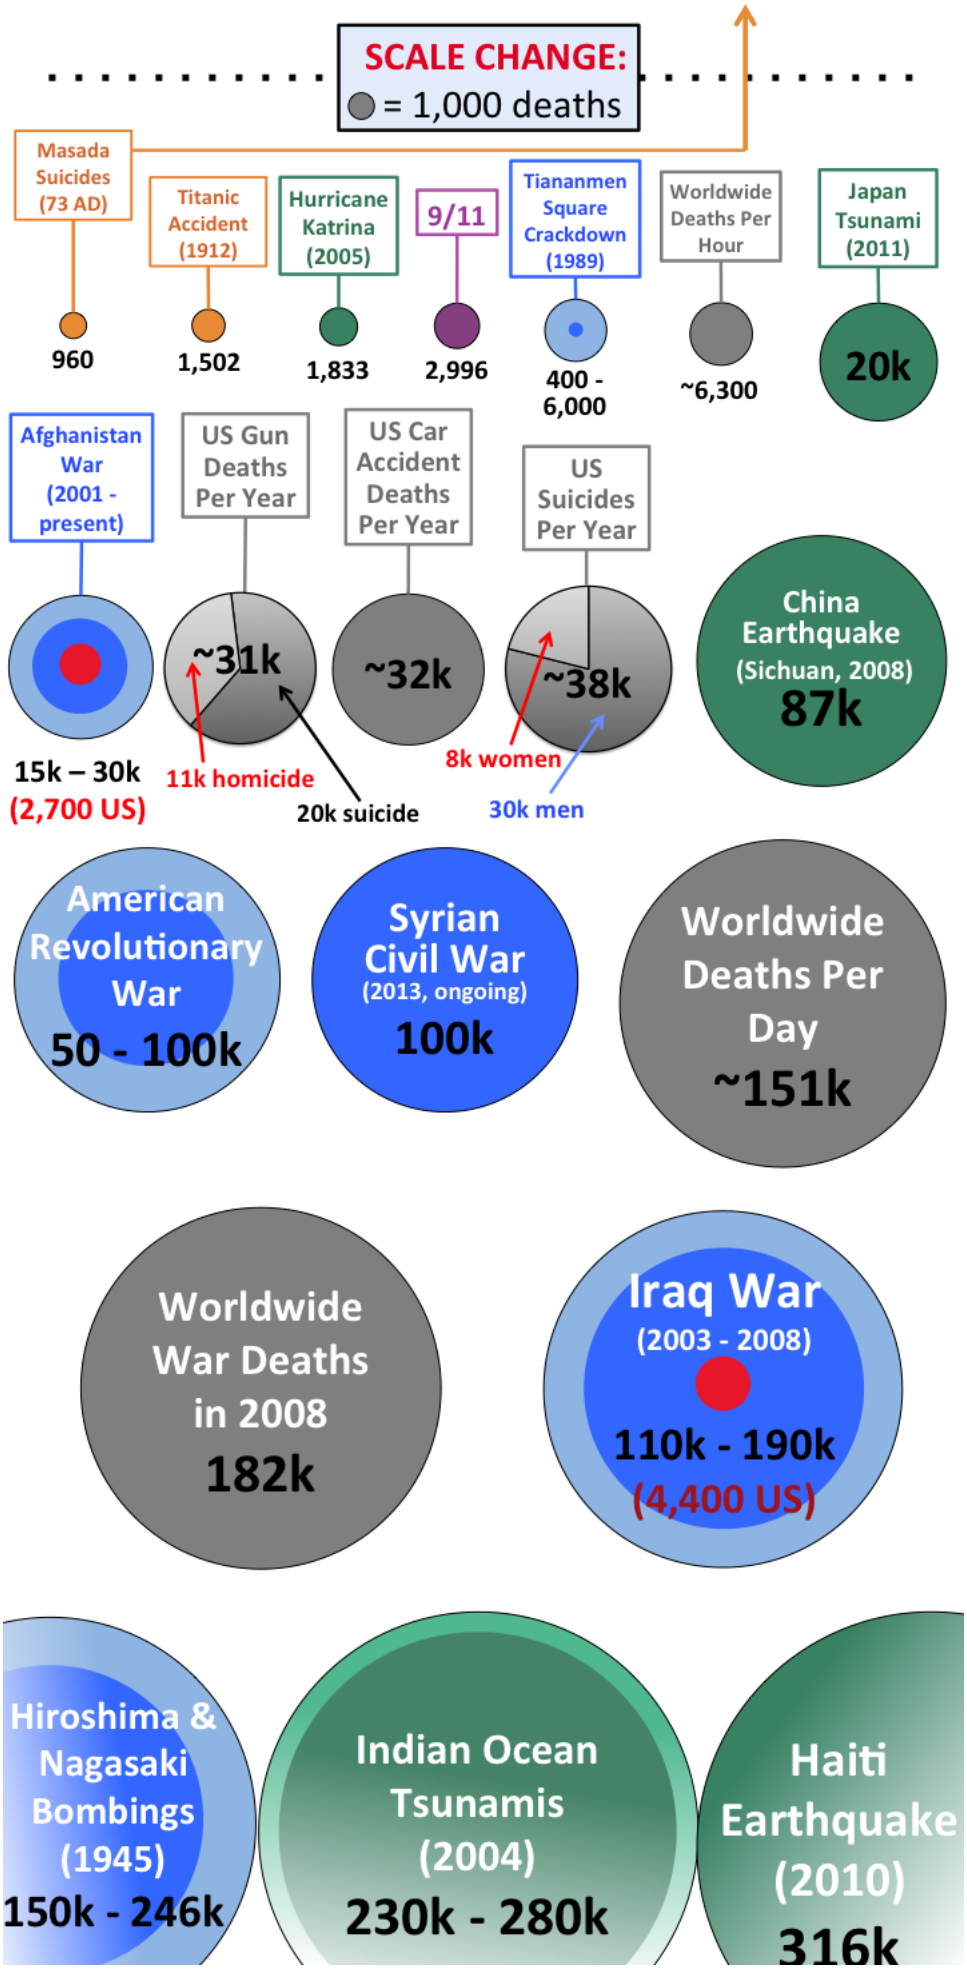
10 Types of 30-Year-Old Single Guys
414 46k

272 67k

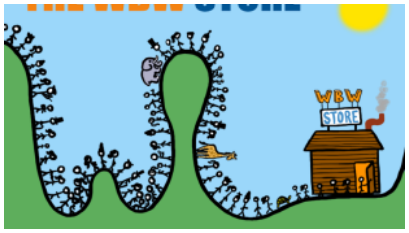
Full Archive



SCALE:
= 1 death
JFK Shot (1963)
1
Worldwide deaths per second
2
Boston Marathon Bombings (2013)
3
Boston Massacre (1770)
5
Challenger Explosion (1986)
7
Deepwater Horizon Oil Rig Explosion (2010)
11
Aurora Shooting (2012)
12
Columbine Shooting (1999)
13
Fort Hood Shooting (2009)
13
Worldwide Shark Deaths In 2011
17
Oklahoma Tornado (2013)
23
Worldwide Lightning Deaths In 2012
28
Sandy Hook Shooting (2012)
28
Virginia Tech Shooting (2007)
32
Ted Bundy Murders (1974-78)
35
San Francisco Earthquake (1989)
63
Norway Shootings (2011)
77
Waco Siege (1993)
82
Worldwide Deaths per Minute
~105
Danish Cartoon Riots (2006)
139
Oklahoma City Bombing (1995)
168
People who have died climbing Mount Everest
219
Masada Suicides (73 AD)
960



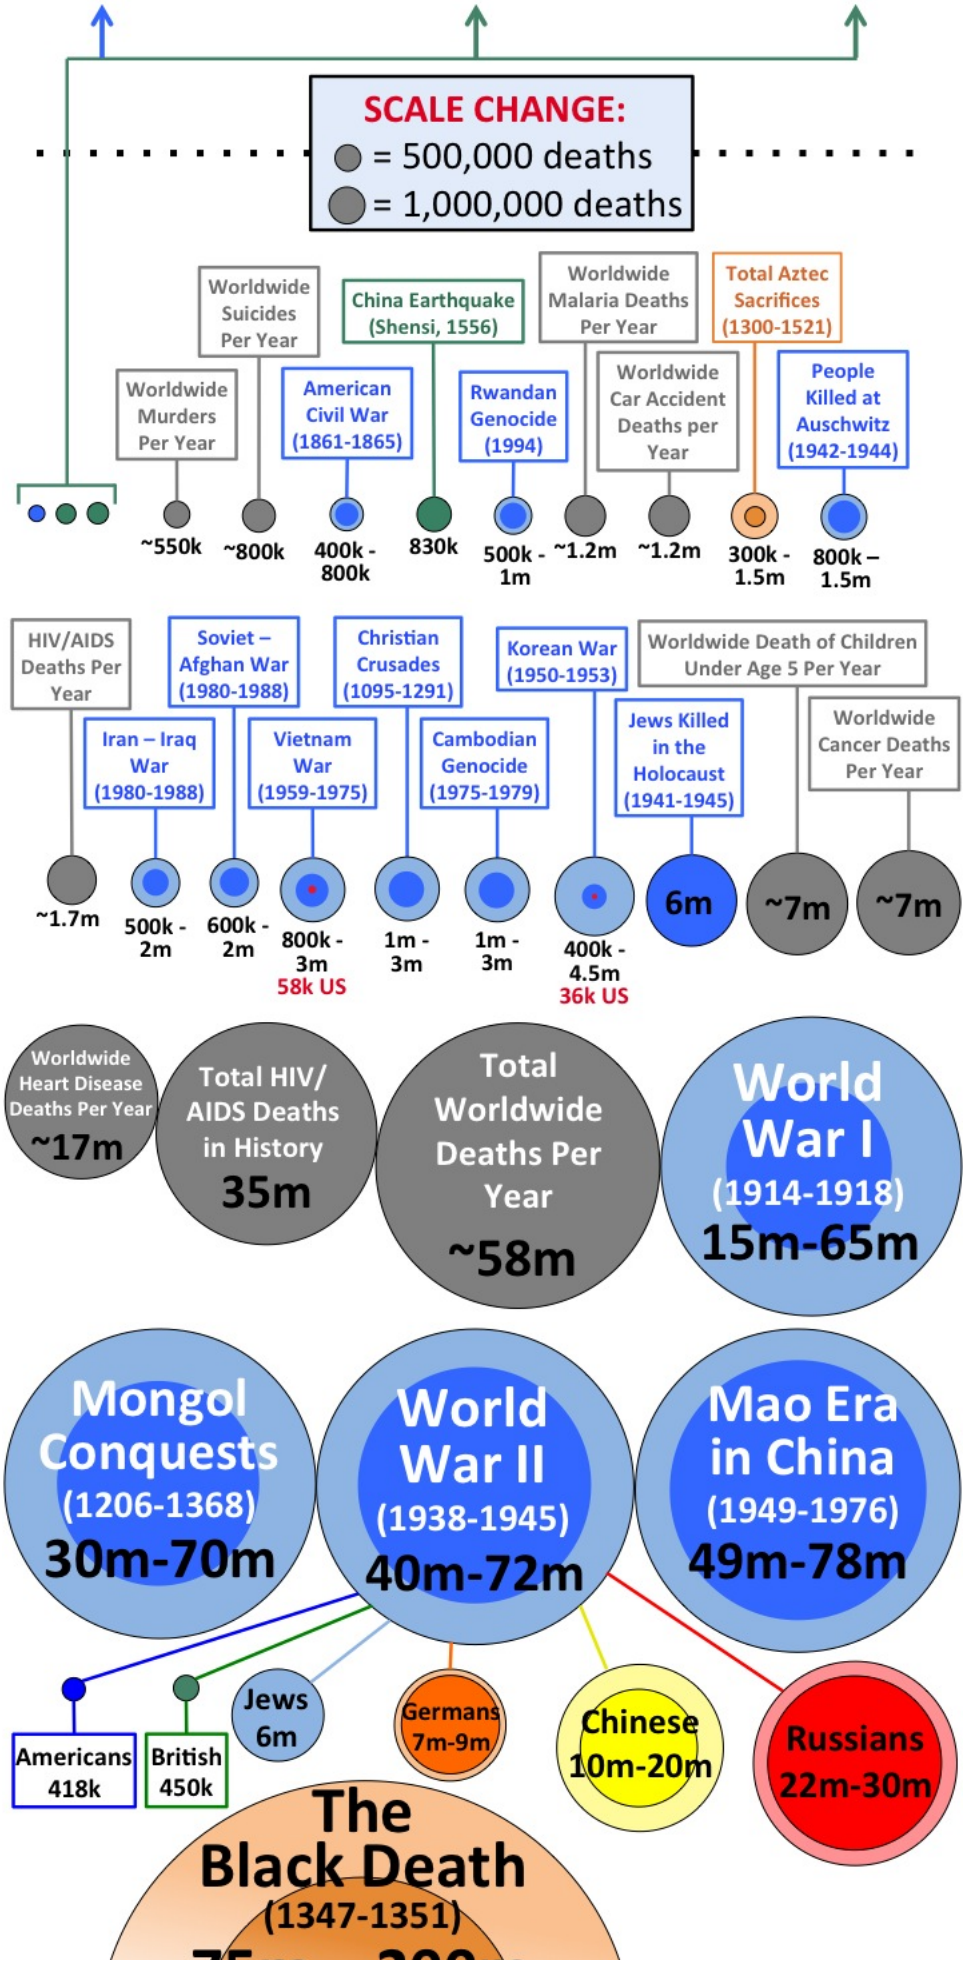
SCALE CHANGE:
= 1,000 deaths
Masada Suicides (73 AD)
960
Titanic Accident (1912)
1,502
Hurricane Katrina (2005)
1,833
9/11
2,996
Tiananmen Square Crackdown (1989)
400 - 6,000
Worldwide Deaths Per Hour
~6,300
Japan Tsunami (2011)
20k
Afghanistan War (2001 - present)
15k – 30k
(2,700 US)
US Gun Deaths Per Year
~31k
11k homicide
20k suicide
US Car Accident Deaths Per Year
~32k
US Suicides Per Year
~38k
8k women
30k men
China Earthquake (Sichuan, 2008)
87k
American Revolutionary War
50 - 100k
Syrian Civil War (2013, ongoing)
100k
Worldwide Deaths Per Day
~151k
Worldwide War Deaths in 2008
182k
Iraq War (2003 - 2008)
110k - 190k
(4,400 US)
Hiroshima & Nagasaki Bombings (1945)
150k - 246k
Indian Ocean Tsunamis (2004)
230k - 280k
Haiti Earthquake (2010)
316k



15.3k
Shares

10.3k

10.3k



SCALE CHANGE:
= 500,000 deaths
= 1,000,000 deaths
Worldwide Murders Per Year
~550k
Worldwide Suicides Per Year
~800k
American Civil War (1861-1865)
400k - 800k
China Earthquake (Shensi, 1556)
830k
Rwandan Genocide (1994)
500k - 1m
Worldwide Malaria Deaths Per Year
~1.2m
Worldwide Car Accident Deaths per Year
~1.2m
Total Aztec Sacrifices (1300-1521)
300k - 1.5m
People Killed at Auschwitz (1942-1944)
800k – 1.5m
HIV/AIDS Deaths Per Year
~1.7m
Iran – Iraq War (1980-1988)
500k - 2m
Soviet – Afghan War (1980-1988)
600k - 2m
Vietnam War (1959-1975)
800k - 3m
58k US
Christian Crusades (1095-1291)
1m - 3m
Cambodian Genocide (1975-1979)
1m - 3m
Korean War (1950-1953)
400k - 4.5m
36k US
Jews Killed in the Holocaust (1941-1945)
6m
Worldwide Death of Children Under Age 5 Per Year
~7m
Worldwide Cancer Deaths Per Year
~7m
Worldwide Heart Disease Deaths Per Year
~17m
Total HIV/ AIDS Deaths in History
35m
Total Worldwide Deaths Per Year
~58m
World War I (1914-1918)
15m-65m
Mongol Conquests (1206-1368)
30m-70m
World War II (1938-1945)
40m-72m
Mao Era in China (1949-1976)
49m-78m
Americans 418k
British 450k
Jews 6m
Germans 7m-9m
Chinese 10m-20m
Russians 22m-30m
The Black Death (1347-1351)

If you're into Wait But Why, sign up for the Wait But Why email list and we'll send you the new posts right when they come out.

If you'd like to support Wait But Why, here's our Patreon.

More Wait But Why history brush-ups:

From Muhammad to ISIS: Iraq's Full Story

The American Presidents—Washington to Lincoln

And another one in infographic form: Putting Time in Perspective

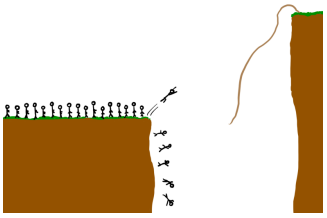
Like 10K Share Tweet submit 6 1,069

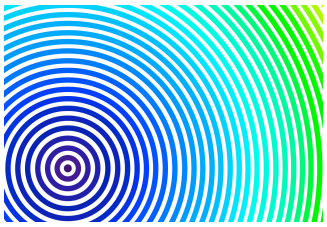
Previous Post Next Post

RECOMMENDED POSTS

Neuralink and the Brain's Magical Future



Why Cryonics Makes Sense



Everything You Should Know About Sound

191 Comments Wait But Why 1 Login

Recommend Share Sort by Newest

Join the discussion…

LOG IN WITH OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS ?

Name

JL Abdullah • 2 months ago

Thanks for including the 8 to 10 million Congolese Africans slaughtered by the white supremacists King Leopold II of Belgium during his terroristic reign in 17th and 18th centuries. Oh wait...you didn't;however, I do thank you for confirming the lack of value placed on Africoid lives by the dominant society, because you are sure to include the European Jews in your list of atrocities which is par for the course.

• Reply • Share ›

Heath2671 → JL Abdullah • 2 months ago

Please elaborate on how exactly were those men "white supremacists"...? They wanted ivory and land. Period. I understand your lack of education keeps you from understanding history, but you should try keeping your race-baiting drivel to 4chan comment sections where they belong.

2 • Reply • Share ›

laden • 3 months ago
I do not bother any more. Your level of debate just is a waste of time. We may meet at another crossroad.
Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➦ laden • 3 months ago
My "level of debate" is the truthful and accurate one. I actually gave quotes from the Bible and other verified sources. You didn't.
1 Reply • Share ›

laden • 3 months ago
I do not think a debate on your level is worth squandering time on. But you are permitted to go on being a hater of Christiany camouphlaging like a pagan.

And also of throwing dirt - it tells the other readers a lot about you.

Ps. From where did you get the idea that if Christians - or Hindus, or Buddhists - or Pagans - did bad things, this makes bad things from Muslims less bad, les inhuman, etc.? Fx. the 1 to 3 million dead during the Crusades (and far from all Muslims) are expiation for 80 million slaugthere Hindus? - or for an unknown number of millions mulatto babies murdered at birth?

And from where did you get the idea that pagans were or are less inhuman than f.x. the Muslims living according to the words of the Quran, like IS, Boko Haram, etc.do?
Reply • Share ›

Starch ➦ laden • 2 months ago
I wonder if people that really believe in god actually think, that the creator of all living things condones war over who worships him/her the right way .(thats what it boils down to.
Reply • Share ›

laden ➦ Starch • 2 months ago
There is no doubt that in Islam the highest form of worship, is to fight and suppress and kill in the name of Allah. In NT to kill is a sin = war really is a sin.
Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➦ laden • 3 months ago
"I do not think a debate on your level is worth squandering time on. But you are permitted to go on being a hater of Christiany camouphlaging like a pagan."

Lol...I'M the one that used ACTUAL QUOTES and EVIDENCE so you're the one not on MY level. And AGAIN...STOP calling people "haters of Christianity" when they could just as easily call YOU a hater of Islam and paganism because you clearly don't even know the difference between a "pagan" (believers in the Old Gods) and an "atheist" (doesn't believe in ANY God). And yes, I AM a pagan. A pagan that gets extremely irritated by Christian hypocrisy and "holier than thou" attitude.

"And also of throwing dirt - it tells the other readers a lot about you."

Again...you were the FIRST to "throw dirt" when you called me "dishonest." And yet you're the one constantly making crap up that you have no proof for.

"Ps. From where did you get the idea that if Christians - or Hindus, or Buddhists - or Pagans - did bad things, this makes bad things from Muslims less bad, les inhuman, etc.? Fx. the 1 to 3 million dead during the Crusades (and far from all Muslims) are expiation for 80 million slaugthere Hindus? - or for an unknown number of millions mulatto babies murdered at birth?"

see more

Reply • Share ›

Bob Barker ➦ laden • 3 months ago
Everyone this is what it's like when you see someone get triggered.
3 Reply • Share ›

authentic8 • 6 months ago
I'm curious why you included the "Christian crusades" but omitted any mention of the killings by Muslims leading up to and during the crusader periods.

Also, the killings directly attributable to Islam throughout its history would have been interesting. Unlike Christianity (i.e. the New Testament) the Koran has direct incitements to kill under various circumstances.
6 Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➔ authentic8 • 3 months ago

Yes, you did.

You said: "Unlike Christianity (i.e. the New Testament) the Koran has direct incitements to kill under various circumstances."

And you're wrong. Not only are there plenty of examples in the Old Testament (yes, it counts And is STILL part of the Bible, and I'll prove why), but even in the NEW Testament Jesus says...

"Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. For I have come to turn a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law--" (Matthew 10: 34-35)

"Do you think that I have come to bring peace on earth? No, I tell you but division" (Luke 12:51)

And why does the Old Testament still count other than because it's still included in the Bible? Because of this:

"Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have NOT come to abolish them but to FULFILL them" (Matthew 5:17).

In other words, JESUS wanted to UPHOLD the laws in the Old Testament so that means Christians and Christian apologists need to stop using "oh the OT doesn't count anymore so we're not violent" as an excuse anymore.

I agree that the author should've included victims of ALL religions (although accurate, unbiased numbers on both sides are hard to come by) in his/her analysis, but the comments here slamming Islam and Muslims AND your erroneous claim that the Bible or Christianity do not have incitement to kill non-believers is hypocritical and false.

Reply • Share ›

authentic8 ➔ ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

Answered at length here. http://disq.us/p/1pavry6

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➔ authentic8 • 3 months ago

And replied to simply: you want double-standards.

Gotta burst your bubble but Christians and the Bible are NOT the only ones who get to hide behind "historical context" and "up-for-interpretation" excuses.

If you want The Bible to be studied on its own terms and with historical context in mind, the Koran should also be studied with its OWN historical context in mind.

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➔ authentic8 • 4 months ago

You're wrong. The Bible ALSO has direct incitement to kill. Pick it up sometime and read it.

Reply • Share ›

laden ➔ ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

Still dishonest enough not to mention the dfference between OT and NT - the last of which is the basis for Christianity. And dishonest enough not to mention the difference between what mainly tells about what happened in the distant past, like OT, and a book inciting to and demanding supression, inhumanities, dishomesty and blood then, now and forever.

Do paganism have the same rules for lawful dishonesty like Islam? Or is it your islamophili wich is shinig through your borrowed pagan mantle?

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➔ laden • 3 months ago

And YOU are still dishonest enough to completely ignore what your OWN supposed "Lord and Savior" SAID avout the Old Testament:

"Do NOT think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to FULFILL them." (Matthew 5:17).

Thus, the Old Testament still counts. BOOM. If you claim to be such a stickler for "honesty," why do you continuously ignore and avoid this?!

So STOP using "the OT is in the past" as an EXCUSE! Plus, I also notice that most Christians completely ignore and condone the rampant future violence in the Book of Revelation too.

But yet again, all of this is blatantly biased and unfair because Christians and the Bible get "exceptions" and excuses like "up for interpretation" or "historical context" in regards to THEIR violence, but there are no exceptions or excuses that Christians allow for Muslims or the Koran.

Well, too bad. It doesn't work that way. If Christians can exempt some entire texts from

see more

Reply • Share ›

Bob Barker ➔ ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

Mentioning the bible doesn't help your credibility. I hope this helps you in the future.

2 Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➔ Bob Barker • 3 months ago

I only mention the Bible to prove to Christians that the same laws, texts, and quotes that they claim to hate and call "violent" in the Koran can also be found in THEIR "holy" book.

Reply • Share ›

authentic8 ➔ ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

I made no factually incorrect statements.

1 Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun ➔ authentic8 • 3 months ago

Yes, you DID make factually incorrect statements.

You said: "Unlike Christianity (i.e. the New Testament) the Koran has direct incitements to kill under various circumstances."

First of all, unlike what Christians would have us conveniently believe, Christianity is NOT based only on the New Testament. And there are quite a few incitements to violence and to kill in the New Testament too!

"Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. For I have come to turn ‘A man against his father, a daughter against her mother, a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.…" (Matthew 10: 34-35)

"Do not think that I have come to bring peace to the earth? No, I tell you, but division." (Luke 12: 51)

Also, JESUS HIMSELF SAID that the Old Laws (the Old Testament) still counted.

"Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have NOT come to abolish them but to FULFILL them." (Matthew 5:17)

So Christians and Christian apologists need to STOP clinging to the old (and false) excuse that the Old Testament somehow "doesn't count anymore," (plus, they also conveniently don't count the violent Book of Revelation either), especially when they don't allow Muslims to make excuses or exempt any part of the Koran.

So yes, your statement was incorrect.

Reply • Share ›

authentic8 ➔ ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

Regarding Matthew 10: 34-36,

"Do not think that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I have not come to bring peace but a sword! For I have come to set a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, and a man’s enemies will be the members of his household."

It helps to understand that Jesus, his contemporaries and predecessors used metaphors a lot. The text immediately following "sword" shows that the "sword" was primarily meant as metaphorical, not literal. There has often been sharp divisions between family members when a member converts and others don't. This was especially true in the early church. The whole of that chapter shows that there is a literal interpretation to "sword" also but it is in talking about the persecution of his followers - the violence described is being done to Christians, not by them. During the early church and throughout church history, there has been violence towards Christians, especially if they convert within a household that follows another religion that explicitly commands violence for apostasy, or within a culture that generally despises Christians and Christianity. There is no command here for Christians to kill

see more

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → authentic8 • 3 months ago

"It helps to understand that Jesus, his contemporaries and predecessors used metaphors a lot."

And I guess your implication is that Muhammad and his contemporaries supposedly never used metaphors???

Again...please stop with the tired double-standards. The excuses of "historical context" and "literary interpretation" apply to ALL historical and religious texts not just the Bible or the texts that are convenient for you.

Reply • Share ›

authentic8 → ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

Firstly, to the article's author - I apologise if you view any of this as off-topic. I know the article wasn't meant to trigger a theological discussion. However, I want this matter to be thoroughly cleared up.

"ThePaganSun" and others...

In the discipline of theology you are told, to understand the meaning of an ancient text, you begin with the immediate context and work your way outwards giving greater weight to the context closest to the words and events described. As Bible teachers say: "Use the Bible to interpret the Bible". The immediate context is the surrounding text, then moving outwardly to chronologically older parts of the same text, newer parts of the text and, finally, the cultural milieu in which the text was written (i.e. customs, traditions, language idioms, external contemporary and preceding texts). This technique is used by scholars of history, not just theologians and Bible scholars.

Using just one text alone alone in isolation from context is not good hermeneutics (the theory and methodology of interpretation). The worst place from which to try to interpret a 2000+ year old text is from the 21st century divorcing it from it's immediate textual and cultural context - in this case Ancient Israel and ancient Semitic cultures in

see more

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → authentic8 • 3 months ago

My main point (and I strongly suspect the original author's main point, at least what I took from it) though was to highlight that the tired arguments of "historical context" and "open to interpretation" applies to ALL historical and religious texts, but yet many Christians (especially those on the far right) often like to denounce the "violent" quotes found in the Koran, but yet conveniently ignore the various violent quotes (in BOTH Old AND New Testaments) found in THEIR holy book.

So a textual comparison system that would compare and contrast both the Koran and the Bible would have to the SAME standards for BOTH texts.

Also, what many people often forget about the Bible is that unlike the Koran, it was written by various people over CENTURIES and was compiled in the order it is now even centuries later at the Council of Nicea in 315 AD overseen by Emperor Constantine so it's not practical to "use the Bible to interpret the Bible" when various later sects of both Judaism and Christianity lay claim to aspects of it.

Unless you meant that it should be considered in the confines of historical context on its own terms, but then like I said...that reasoning should apply to ALL historical and religious texts, not just the Bible

see more

Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

Still you are dishonest enough not to mention the difference between OT and NT. It tells somthing that haters of the Christians have to be dishonest there.

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 4 months ago

I DO know the difference, you fool. YOU are the one that forgot that Jesus literally said

I DO know the difference, you fool. YOU are the one that forgot that Jesus literally said he came to UPHOLD the OT, NOT to replace it!

"Do not think that I have come to abolish the law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them." (Matthew 5:17).

This means that anything and everything in the OT STILL COUNTS! Again, read your Own damned book before judging OTHER people's religions or holy texts!

Reply • Share ›

Ali Raza Zain → authentic8 • 5 months ago

As if you've read and understood Quran. Get your facts right bro. You need to read interpretation from an authentic source. "Killing a human unjustly is like killing whole of humanity, and saving one human is like saving all the humanity." It's also an injunction of Quran. Not killing non combatants during war is also mentioned. Muslims are worst followers of the best religion indeed.

1 • Reply • Share ›

laden → Ali Raza Zain • 4 months ago

This is a much used quote. What EVERY such quote omits, is that this according to the Quran was said to the Jews, not to Islam. What they also omit to mention, is that this - and most other peaceful points in the Quran - was and is abrogated (made invalid) by 300+ points glorifying violence against and suppression or murder of all "infidels", plus another 300+ points inciting to or demanding the same. The lawful dishonesty - here in the forms of al-Taqiyya (the lawful lie) or Kitman (the lawful half-truth) - is somthing I dislike even more than its murders and slave taking, in Islam.

Reply • Share ›

Nephthys → Ali Raza Zain • 4 months ago

It says in the Koran, over 100 times, for Muslims to kill non believers. Mohammed, on his deathbed, cursed Christians & Jews & called for their death. One verse in the Koran that says not to kill ppl is moot bc it's irrelevant compared to what Mohammed said & did & what the Koran says. Islam is responsible for over 270 million deaths since it's beginning.

1 • Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → Nephthys • 4 months ago

The BIBLE ALSO clearly says to kill unbelievers. Read and judge your OWN book before judging other religions.

1 • Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

Why are you and all other anti-Christians so dishonest, that you never mention that these quotes all are from GT, which to Christians mainly is background history, and that the religion is built on the much milder words of Jesus - and that whenever there is discrepancy between GT and NT, it is NT which counts?

NB: I have read both the Quran, the Bible, and Mein Kampf. There are more paralells between the Quran and Mein Kampf - on a couple of points the Quran is even worse than Mein Kampf (f.x. when it comes to incitements to killing, when it comes to slave taking, when it comes to rape, when it comes to race discrimination) - than between the Quran and NT.

And one question: To all the Americas there were imported some 4 mill. black women through 300 years, mainly for work. Today there are 100 million or more descendants from them. To the Muslim contries there were imported 25 million or more black women and girl children, mainly as sex slaves in the harems (fx. "African Echo", 21.12.2017) through 1400 years.WHERE ARE THE PERHAPS ONE BILLION DESCENDANTS THERE SHOULD HAVE BEEN FROM THEM? - WHERE ARE THE MORE THAN 200 MILLION MULATTOES, ETC. THERE SHOULD HAVE BEEN ONLY IN ARABIA?
Black/coloured children were too much of a shame in a family. The babies - likely at least 100 million through the centuries - were murdered by their fathers or by his family just after birth. Where do you find acceptance for infanticide that style in Christianity? And why is there such a silence about this among the politically correct ones like you?

1 • Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 4 months ago

First of you Anti-Muslims (and anti-everybody else who's not a Christian- See? I can play your stupid "anti" game, too!) need to STOP using the tired excuse that "The Old Testament is 'history'" BS because a) if it was "just history" the early Christians wouldn't have included it in The Bible and b) Jesus literally claimed he came to FULFILL the Old Laws, NOT replace them!

FULFILL the Old Laws, NOT replace them!

"Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them." (Matthew 5:17)

This means that almost everything that was written in the Old Testament, Jesus AGREED with! And lol...you REALLY need to go back and read the damned Bible in regards to take, slaves, war and violence if you stupidly think the Koran sounds like lol...Mein Kampf, but not the Bible. That sounds like TOTAL BIAS in your part, and I'll get to proving it in a bit.

Also, if you think Jesus himself didn't make questionable statements about violence and war, think again!

"Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring

see more

Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

A PS: Like you see I have not commented on your slander. When someone is so short of arguments needing to resort to slander, or of a quality needing to resort to such language, it tells a lot about that person, so I let the words tell their tales to the other readers.

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 4 months ago

There's nothing "slanderous" about the TRUTH that I exposed and called you out on.

Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

Also Islam like you claims to tell the truth. But in "1000+ Mistakes in the Quran" - US$ 10 on Amazon - you will find listed 1750+ wromg facts, 350+ other non-religious errors, 300+ contradictions.

If you go on to "Muhammd Lying in the Quran" - US$ 1 on Amazon - you will find listed 100 where Muhammad obviously or proveably lies in the Quran.

If you also load down "Verses of War in the Quran" - US$ 5 on Amazon - you will find 300+ points glorifying violence, suppression and blood + as many demanding or ordering the same.

There also are hundreds If points slandering the non-Muslims, or painting Muslims like Ubermench - with rights and duty to steal/loot, take slaves, suppress and kill - and the right to rape any not pregnant female captive.

But Islam claims to be "the Relifion of Peace", and like you the Quran frequently claims it is The Truth.

But like you, the Quran not one single time claims to be the honesty.

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 3 months ago

Why are you listing clearly biased anti-Muslim books like they're supposed to prove your point, when you conveniently ignore the dozens if not hundreds of books that expose all the inaccuracies and contradictions of the Bible?!

Like these:

- "The Encyclopedia of Biblical Errancy" by C. Dennis Mckinsey (1995)

- "Self-contradictions of the Bible" by William Henry Burr (2013)

- "The Bible Against Itself: Why the Bible Seems to Contradict Itself" by Rachel McCraw Helms (2006) (proves that the Biblical passages have been altered)

- "Blaming Jesus for Jehovah: Rethinking the Righteousness of Christianity" by Robert M. Price (2016)

- "Christianity in the Light of Science: Critically Examining the World's Largest Religion" by John W. Loftus (2016)

- "All That's Wrong with the Bible: Contradictions, Absurdities, and More" by Jonah David Connor (2017)

And again, there are ALSO PLENTY of quotes in the Bible that encourage the slaughter of non-believers so go read THOSE before making it seem like the Koran is the only holy text that has those quotes!

So biased and hypocritical people like you have NO right to lecture anyone else on "honesty."

Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 3 months ago

Irony. You list a number of biased books, and acuse others of being biased! You are a funny woman.

Actually the book I mainly juges Islam from, is the Quran. And you still are dishomest enough to "tell" others and the world what an oppnent reads and means and how he is biased - if he or she does not agree with you, they have to be biased course - without checking if it is true or not. What the science of debate technique names "unserious, grade 3".

And you continue to be dishonest enough to deny that Christianity mainly is based on NT. Well, you have to, because in NT there is not so much stuff for a hater - - - ut still it is dishonesty.

And you are dishonest enough not to differenciate between a book, OT, which mainly tells about what happened 4ooo-2ooo years ago, and a book boasting about blood and inhumanity then, and inciting to the same for all future untill all "infels" are slaves - "It is as great a sin to prohibit something Allah accepts and Muhammad practiced (rape, slave taking, slave trading), as it is to permit something Allah prohibits".

see more

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 3 months ago

Again....because YOU listed biased books FIRST! What's "funny" is how easily you complain about the biased actions of other people that you literally just committed YOURSELF FIRST! And you're a very hypocritical man.

"Actually the book I mainly juges Islam from, is the Quran."

And actually the Book I judge Christianity from (and where most of those other "biased" books I listed also got their info from) is THE BIBLE. Again...it goes BOTH ways. You so easily see violence, war, rape, and slavery in other people's holy books but completely ignore such similar themes in YOUR OWN! Worse still, you try to JUSTIFY it in your book. Yet you don't think Muslims will be able to justify the texts and actions of THEIR holy book on the same basis you condone them in yours?! How hypocritical...

Your OWN words proved you to be biased. You insult and bash the Koran and Muslims based on a few texts, but then get extremely defensive and SLANDER people calling them "dishonest" for calling you out on your hypocrisy. And you have the gall to call ME "dishonest" when the same texts and themes you criticize in the Koran is literally ALSO in your so-calked holy Bible?!

see more

Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

You at least prove my words: practically all the quotes you mention, are taken from OT. And beware: The Bible is not my book, as I am an atheist. But unlike you, I am able to and evaluate also things I do not agree with.

Sorry, but it is a scientific fact from relevant sciences, that GT mainly is historical background for the Christian religion. One fact in this connection, is that wherever there is discrepancy between OT and GT, it is Jesus' words which counts. This fact alone proves the statement.

In my country we learn history in order to understand our present and our culture. The early Christians would have to do the same and for even better reasons, as both their culture and the background for their new religion, were closer in time, and closely interwoven with the jewish culture - a culture not possible to understand if you did not know its history and religion + many points in the new religion are difficult to fully understand or appreciate fully, unless you knew some about the background.

Jesus offered the early Christians the sword. But was it a sword they should use, or a

Jesus offered the early Christians the sword. But was it a sword they should use, or a sword used against them? Did he simply warn them against the persecution they would have to face? Combined with "turn the other cheek", the first alternative is highly

see more

1 • Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 4 months ago

LOL...and YOU proved that you have SELECTIVE READING because I clearly included quotes from the NEW TESTAMENT as well. Luke and Matthew to be exact so maybe get off your high horse and READ THEM AGAIN.

"it is a scientific fact from relevant sciences"

Hahaha...And YOU dare talk of "dishonesty" and "slander?!" The Bible is NO MORE "scientific" than any other holy book! So STOP using that EXCUSE! Also, I PROVED that Jesus said he came to FULFILL THE LAW OF THE OT, NOT REPLACE IT! So why are you conveniently ignoring THAT part?! Or that he came to BRING A SWORD!

You people are deliberately nitpicking other religions and and other holy texts apart but are conveniently ignoring all the contradictions and explicit incitements to violence in YOUR OWN!

"In my country we learn history in order to understand our present and our culture. The early Christians would have to do the same and for even better reasons"

And the rest of your empty words are just more excuses, meaning that "Oh, in order to

see more

• Reply • Share ›

laden → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

As for your slander: I think it needs no more comments, because most readers see the difference between honesty and throwing around bad words about the ones who do not agree with you - just like the Quran does, just like Mein Kampf does, just like Stalin did, just like Mao did, just like IS does, just like Boko Haram does. You hve good company.

Most of the rest of your ranting, I think I leave for the other leaders to judge on. I just remind them - I do not think your brain is open for info it does not like - about the difference between "thinking, mode 1", and "thinking, mode 2". You demonstrate an excellent case of a representative of "thinking, mode 1".

You also are dishonest about being a pagan - a polytheist like most pagans? If you had been an honest pagan, you had opposed also f.x. Islam and other big religions on par with the Mosaic and the Christians. You practically only attack Christianity = you simply is a hater of Christianity hiding behind a pagan mask.

The 30 year war the longest one? Have you ever heard about "the 100 year war"? The 110 years civil war in early mediaval Norway? The slave war in Iraq/Iran - if I remember correctly in the 800s? Etc. And what about the 1400 years of more or less

see more

1 • Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → laden • 3 months ago

Get over yourself. NOTHING you've said has been the "truth." You've never even provided acceptable links or quotes from the texts to prove your point like I have.

"As for your slander: I think it needs no more comments, because most readers see the difference between honesty and throwing around bad words about the ones who do not agree with you - just like the Quran does, just like Mein Kampf does.."

Lol...First of all, YOU have also used "slander" so again...GET OVER YOURSELF. And second of all, the BIBLE ALSO "throws around bad words" so did the Crusaders, so do some extremist Christian dictators in Africa and Latin America. If you think Islam and Muslims are the only type of people who commit terrible acts, you're an idiot.

"You also are dishonest about being a pagan - a polytheist like most pagans? If you had been an honest pagan, you had opposed also f.x. Islam and other big religions on par with the Mosaic and the Christians. You practically only attack Christianity = you simply is a hater of Christianity hiding behind a pagan mask."

No, I AM a pagan (Roman Reconstructionist to be exact) and while I do disagree with some of Islam's teachings, I've noticed that Muslims (the ones I've met anyway) treat

some of Islam's teachings, I've noticed that Muslims (the ones I've met anyway) treat

see more

Reply • Share ›

Dug FmJamul → Ali Raza Zain • 4 months ago

Mohammed is believed to be perfect and the Qur'an tells Muslims repeatedly to emulate his behavior. As we already know, Muslims can choose to follow Mohammed's Meccan example, as most of them do or follow the Medina example as the Jihadists do. Since earlier verses are ABROGATED by later ones, the Medinan Qur'an is better, but since the Qur'an is perfect the Meccan Qur'an is also valid. To say killing a human is unjust according to the examples of Muhammad would be a lie. Muhammad killed a lot, thousands of innocent people died at the hands of his disciples, Muhammad beheaded over 600 Jews himself to set an example. There is no new Prophet of Islam which solely focuses on the peaceful verses of Mecca, the Medina verses are better according to Muhammad himself, you should know that.

How many were the populations We utterly destroyed because of their iniquities, setting up in their places other peoples? Yet, when they felt Our Punishment (coming), behold, they (tried to) flee from it. Flee not, but return to the good things of this life which were given you, and to your homes in order that ye may be called to account. They said: "Ah! woe to us! We were indeed wrong-doers!" And that cry of theirs ceased not, till We made them as a field that is mown, as ashes silent and quenched. (Qur'an 21:11-15)

1 Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → Dug FmJamul • 3 months ago

And Jesus is also claimed by Christians to be "perfect" and yet he clearly stated such things like "I did not come to bring peace, but a sword" (Matthew 10:34). So what's your excuse for THAT?

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → Dug FmJamul • 4 months ago

Lol...you don't think that early Hebrews killed many people on the orders of their God?! You don't think that the early Christians killed people?!

And before you use the tired, double-standards excuse that the Old Testament "doesn't count," here's what Jesus said about the Old Testament and the Old Laws:

"Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them." (Matthew 5:17)

And here's what Jesus said about violence:

"Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. For I have come to turn a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law--" (Matthew 10: 34-35)

"Do you think that I have come to bring peace to the earth? No, I tell you, but division." (Luke 12:51)

So AGAIN...ENOUGH WITH THE DOUBLE-STANDARDS! Muhammad might not have been the best role model by our modern standards, but he was in the middle of a

see more

Reply • Share ›

Dug FmJamul → ThePaganSun • 4 months ago

What put's the 'Qur'an in 'context'? If you don't know, then you're not qualify to defend it.

There's more than enough STUPID in your progressive talking points attacking Jews and Christians while defending the Religion of War, the sad fact is you don't know why you're stupid.

Reply • Share ›

ThePaganSun → Dug FmJamul • 3 months ago

"What put's the 'Qur'an in 'context'? If you don't know, then you're not qualify to defend it."

The SAME thing that puts the BIBLE "in context," you idiot!

No, there's more than enough STUPID and BIAS in YOUR comments and claims that you Christians keep harping excuses for all the violence, slavery, war, rape, and death in YOUR religion and "holy" book but yet trying to condemn them in OTHERS, specifically Islam.

Read and judge your OWN "holy" book before trying to judge those of others.

Oh I've read the Bible, but
I bet my my buttons that you haven't read EITHER the Bible or the Koran, cover to cover.
• Reply • Share ›

Lynn D ➔ Ali Raza Zain • 5 months ago
That is the GO TO quote to try and proves that Islam is a benign religion. The Trouble is, it is not an Islamic saying, but comes from the Talmud.. And you forgot to add the rest of that Sura,
That goes on about those who commit mischief in the land and how they should have a hand and a foot from opposites sides cut off and banished from the land.
1 • Reply • Share ›

authentic8 ➔ Ali Raza Zain • 5 months ago
How do you know what I have read or understood? That is very presumptuous of you. Since I did not state which "various circumstances" I was referring to, I could have been referring to the same circumstances that you believe are justified by the Quran.

The problem is that the terms "non-combatants" and "unjustly" in the Quranic sense are interpreted variously by Muslims. An authentic source to one person is an inauthentic source to another. The same is true of Christians and the Crusades prompted by their faulty interpretation of the Bible. I am not saying anything controversial here nor have you disputed anything I said factually.

The only concern I have is that Christian killings of Muslims are included in this list but Muslim killings of Christians are not. I would, in fact, like to see all religious killings included in the list - it only seems fair. My comment regarding incitements to kill in the Quran are simply to emphasise my surprise that Islamic killings are overlooked. I was not commenting on whether they were justified or not though I am sure that some were, and some were not.
• Reply • Share ›

Beat Kunz • 7 months ago
I don't see the death's Stalin is responsible for, nor do I see the 5 mio in the DRC conflict.
7 • Reply • Share ›

Load more comments

ALSO ON WAIT BUT WHY

You Win
4 comments • 9 months ago
Avatar Night King — I win!!

Which drugs should be legal?
208 comments • a year ago
Avatar DrSuess — In a lot of cases, "the drug problem" as we discuss it, isn't a drug problem. It's a social and econimic issue. Cyclical poverty, mental health …

It's Going to Be Okay – Follow Up
565 comments • a year ago
Avatar TheRadicalModerate — I hope I can write this without screwing it up.The arguments Tim is making for why we shouldn't demonize Trump voters are fine, as …

Would Calexit be a good thing?
196 comments • a year ago
Avatar Haiku — I think Calexit would be really, really good for the rest of the country.

7 Comments Sort by Top

Add a comment...

Nishit Raj
Islamic invasion of India killed 400 million,whwere is that ?
Like · Reply · 2 · 21w

John J Maguire · Albany, New York
Na. That's an insane amount of poeple. Everyone in the world would know someone killed by a 400 million person extinction. And I don't konw anyone killed by that.
Like · Reply · 10w

Like · Reply · 10w

Eric Sanders
The largest numbers I was able to find (again, way outer circle for the above charts) were 80-100M over 1,300 years.
Like · Reply · 1w

Jeff Brophy · Senior Software Engineer at D+H, fka Harland Financial Solutions, fka Concentrex, fka CFI Proservices
Missing the 1918 Flu Pandemic. 50-100 million, putting it second only to the Black Death itself.
Like · Reply · 5 · 30w

Theresa Ross · Highland, Indiana
Forgot the 40-50 Million babies aborted in the United States Every Year.
http://www.worldometers.info/abortions/
http://www.who.int/en/
Like · Reply · 1w

Eric Sanders
Read closer. 40-50M worldwide. Approx. 1M in US (3,000/day * 365 days = 1,095,000). So, including all of them would make Total Worldwide Deaths almost double from the listed 58M.
Like · Reply · 1w

Ben Frank
Where are the Japanese deaths in WWII?
Like · Reply · 5w

Eric Sanders
2.6-3.1M according to
https://www.nationalww2museum.org/.../research-starters...
Like · Reply · 1w

Lisa Robinson · Museum Docent at Wenatchee Valley Museum & Cultural Center
I'm wondering about the deaths under Stalin too.
Like · Reply · 3w

Eric Sanders
3-9M direct deaths, 9-50M including famine deaths. 1929-1953
Like · Reply · 1w

Ali Raza Zain · Digital Marketing Strategist at Competitive Edge - Digital Agency
What's the source for crusades' death count?
Like · Reply · 22w

Eric Sanders
You could use the below?
http://necrometrics.com/pre1700a.htm#Crusades
Like · Reply · 1w

Valerie Kneen-Teed
Lots to think about.... hmmmm....
Like · Reply · 5w

© WaitButWhy 2018
Privacy Policy